

Privacy Policy

Last Revised: March 25, 2016

General Statement

We appreciate your visit to the web site for Futures Without Violence (the "Site"). By using the Site, you agree and consent to the following privacy policy ("Privacy Policy") of Futures Without Violence. If we decide to change our Privacy Policy, we will post those changes on this page, so be sure to check back periodically. If you do not agree to this Privacy Policy, please do not use the Site.

Parts of the Site may make far less use of personal information than we have outlined in this Privacy Policy, but we wanted to provide you with an inclusive statement of our practices.

Collection and Use

We respect your preferences concerning the collection and use of your personal data. Futures Without Violence collects information from users for the following purposes:

1) To select content.

Information may be collected to help create web site content and navigation that is most relevant and user friendly for visitors. This includes information collected as a result of site navigation and information provided in forms.

2) To respond to user inquiries and requests for information.

This information includes registrations for newsletters and specific requests for further information.

3) To engage in communications.

When you make a donation or order a product or service, we may need to know your name, e-mail address, shipping & billing address, and credit card information. This allows us to process and fulfill your donation or order. This information may be collected and stored as part of the transaction (donation or purchase) history. Futures Without Violence may need to share some of this information with delivery services, credit card clearing houses and other similarly situated third parties that are required to accomplish the transaction.

When you subscribe to e-alerts, the information you enter is used to send the requested information.

We may also use this information to occasionally notify you about important functional changes to the Site and other domestic violence issues in which we think you may be interested. Each message we send you will include information on how to unsubscribe yourself from our mailing list.

4) To comply with of legal requirements.

Futures Without Violence may be required to provide personally identifiable information in order to comply with legally mandated reporting, disclosure or other legal process requirements.

Donor Privacy Policy

Future Without Violence does not sell, share or trade donors' names or personal information with any other entity, except when legally required to disclose information, nor send mailing to our donors on behalf of other organizations. Use of donor information is limited to the internal purposes for furthering the stated mission and programs of Futures Without Violence.

We may publish donor names in an Annual Report or other collateral to recognize donor support which may be available for viewing online. We honor requests for donors who prefer to give anonymously and safeguard such preferences along with stored donor contact information.

This policy applies to all information received by Futures Without Violence, both online and offline, on any Platform ("Platform", includes the website and mobile applications), as well as any electronic, written, or oral communications.

To the extent any donations are processed through a third-party service provider, our donors' information will only be used for purposes necessary to process the donation.

Security

Futures Without Violence is concerned with the security of the personally identifiable information we have collected and has in place reasonable measures to prevent unauthorized access to that information. These measures include - policies, procedures, and technical elements relating to data access controls. In addition, Futures Without Violence uses standard security protocols and mechanisms to exchange the transmission of sensitive data such as credit card details.

When you make donations or place orders or access your account information, we offer the use of a secure server. The secure server software (SSL) encrypts all information you input before it is sent to us. Furthermore, all of the customer data we collect is protected against unauthorized access.

Futures Without Violence assures you that the identity of all who contact us through the Site is kept confidential: we do not sell, trade, or rent your personal information to others. Futures Without Violence may release account information when we believe, in good faith, that such release is reasonably necessary to: (i) comply with law, or (ii) protect the rights, property or safety of Futures Without Violence, our users, or others.

As with most other Internet sites, our web servers record the IP address of each visitor to the Site. This IP address tells us which domain you visited from (for instance, aol.com), but not your email address or other private and personal information. We use this information to help diagnose problems with our servers, to administer the Site more effectively, and to gather broad demographic information about what countries and domains our visitors hail from and their behavior on the Site.
