Learning Objectives

1. Describe the limits of domestic violence disclosure-driven practice, especially for the most marginalized communities.

2. Describe how using Futures Without Violence’s CUES intervention can lead to improved outcomes for participants.
Domestic Violence Definitions and Prevalence
Getting Started: Small Group Discussion

Why is it important for home visitors to know about domestic violence?
Domestic violence negatively impacts home visitation program outcomes including:

- Maternal health
- Pregnancy outcomes
- Children’s cognitive and emotional development and physical health
- Parenting skills
- Family safety
- Social support
- Economic readiness
Lessons Learned from Nurse Family Partnership

The effectiveness of home visitation services in preventing child abuse is diminished and may even disappear when mothers are being victimized by an intimate partner.

(Eckenrode, et al. 2000)
Before we learn about the dynamics of DV, let’s talk about your personal safety

- Does your program currently have a protocol to promote staff safety on home visits?
- What kinds of things are included in your protocol?
- What other things do you do to keep yourself safer?
What is Intimate Partner Violence?

One person in a relationship is using a pattern of methods and tactics to gain and maintain power and control over the other person.

- It is often a cycle that gets worse over time – not a one time ‘incident’
- Abusers use jealousy, social status, mental health, money, and other tactics to be controlling and abusive – not just physical violence
- Leaving an abusive relationship is not always the best, safest, or most realistic option for survivors
Prevalence of Intimate Partner Violence

1 in 4 (25%) U.S. women report ever experiencing IPV

(2010 CDC National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey)
17% reported past-year physical or psychological IPV (Michalopoulos et al., 2015)

Studies conducted among samples of low-income predominantly single women have noted that up to 30% of women experienced IPV during the perinatal period (Alhusen, 2013; Alhusen, 2014)

In rural settings, the incidence of IPV may be as high as 50% during the perinatal period (Bailey, 2007)

Health Disparities Issue

African American, Native American, and Hispanic women are at significantly greater risk for domestic violence.

Health Disparities Issue

When differences in income, education, and/or employment are considered, the differences attributable to race for DV decrease or disappear.

(Benson, 2004)
Group Discussion: Free Share

Why might a person stay in a relationship when IPV has occurred?
If you only take one thing home from this training—Leaving a relationship can never be the goal. Leaving comes with the highest likelihood for homicide or acute victimization. Staying might be the safest choice.

We need to move away from asking: “Why hasn’t the survivor left?” to asking: “What can I do to support this mom, with what she needs?”
Perinatal Health Impact of Domestic Violence
Large Group Discussion

How does domestic violence impact women's perinatal health and their birth outcomes?
Homicide and Suicide

- 45.3% of pregnancy-associated homicides were IPV-associated.
- 54.3% of pregnancy-associated suicides involved intimate partner conflict attributable to the suicide.
- Victims of pregnancy-associated [homicide and suicide] are more likely to be Black, younger, and unmarried.

(Pandino et al, 2011)
“Pregnancy-associated homicide and suicide each account for more deaths than many other obstetric complications, including hemorrhage, obstetric embolism, or preeclampsia/eclampsia, which may be thought of as more “traditional” causes of maternal mortality.”

(Palladino et al, 2011)
Women who experience abuse around the time of pregnancy are more likely to:

- Smoke tobacco
- Drink during pregnancy
- Use drugs
- Experience depression, higher stress, and lower self-esteem

(Alhusen, 2015)
Substance Use Coercion
National DV Hotline & NCDVTMH Survey N = 3,224

26% Ever used substances to reduce pain of partner abuse?
27% Pressured or forced to use alcohol or other drugs, or made to use more than wanted?
24.4% Afraid to call the police for help because partner said they wouldn’t believe you because of using, or you would be arrested for being under the influence?
15.2% Tried to get help for substance use?
60.1% If yes, partner or ex-partner tried to prevent or discourage you from getting that help?
37.5% Partner or ex-partner threatened to report alcohol or other drug use to someone in authority to keep you from getting something you wanted or needed?

(Warshaw et al., NCDVTMH/NDVH 2014)
DV During Pregnancy is Associated with:

- Low and very low birth weight
- Pre-term births

(Shah, 2010)
Women experiencing physical abuse around the time of pregnancy are: 41%-71% more likely to cease breastfeeding by 4 weeks postpartum.

(Silverman, 2006)
Women with a controlling or threatening partner are 5 times more likely to experience persistent symptoms of postpartum maternal depression.

(Blabey et al, 2009)
Rethinking Non-compliance

• Women experiencing IPV are also twice as likely to not initiate prenatal care until the third trimester (Subramania, 2012)

• Women are significantly more likely to miss three or more prenatal visits than their nonabused counterparts (Dunn, 2004)
Perinatal Health

- Women who disclosed abuse were at an increased risk for rapid repeat and unintended pregnancy

  (Sarkar, 2008; Raneri, 2007)

- Male partner desires for or against pregnancy may overpower women’s reproductive decisions, especially in relationships characterized by patriarchal or male dominance

  (Gonzalez, 2010)
Show of Hands

What percentage of your clients’ pregnancies have been unplanned?
Definition: Reproductive and Sexual Coercion

Behaviors to maintain power and control in a relationship related to reproductive health by someone who is, was, or wishes to be involved in an intimate or dating relationship with an adult or adolescent.

- Explicit attempts to impregnate a partner against her wishes or interfering with contraception
- Controlling outcomes of a pregnancy
- Coercing a partner to have unprotected sex

(Miller, 2011)
“Like the first couple of times, the condom seems to break every time. You know what I mean, and it was just kind of funny, like, the first 6 times the condom broke. Six condoms, that's kind of rare. I could understand 1, but 6 times, and then after that when I got on the birth control, he was just like always saying, like you should have my baby, you should have my daughter, you should have my kid".

- 17 year old female who started Depo-Provera without partner’s knowledge

(Miller, 2007)
Group Discussion

What are other ways a partner can interfere with a female client’s birth control?
Key Consideration: IUD Harm Reduction Strategy

• If her partner monitors her menstrual cycles, a copper T/IUD may be the safest method to offer her.
• Especially if the strings are cut in the cervical canal so they can’t be pulled out, or felt by a partner.
• The inconvenience of IUD removal with ultrasound may well be worth avoiding an unwanted pregnancy by an abusive partner.
Moving Beyond Screening Through CUES: An Evidenced Based Trauma Informed Approach to Address DV
Clinicians identified the following barriers:

- Comfort levels with initiating conversations with patients about DV
- Feelings of frustration with patients when they do not follow a plan of care
- Not knowing what to do about positive disclosures of abuse
- Lack of time
- Vicarious trauma or personal trauma
- Child protection service involvement (CPS) /Deportation reporting fears

(Sprague, 2012)
Healthcare Providers Make a Difference

Women Who Talked to Their Health Care Provider About Experiencing Abuse Were:

FOUR TIMES more likely to use an intervention such as:

- Advocacy
- Counseling
- Protection orders
- Shelter
- Other services

(McCloskey, 2006)
Self Reflection: On a Scale of 1 to 5

Now how comfortable are you with a positive disclosure of DV?
Show of Hands

• How many of you have, or know someone who has ever left something out of a medical history or intentionally misreported information to their healthcare provider?

• Why? What were they worried about?
What Is a Mother’s Greatest Fear?
Perspectives shared by home visited moms:

• “If mandatory reporting was not an issue, she would tell the nurse everything about the abuse…”

• “I say no [when my home visitor asks about abuse] because that’s how you play the game... People are afraid of social services. That’s my biggest fear…”

• “Like I was saying about my friend, the reason she don’t [disclose] is because she thinks the nurse is going to call children’s services…she avoids the nurse a lot.”

(Davidov, 2012)
Identification and Assessment of IPV in Nurse Home Visitation

- The use of structured screening tools at enrollment does not promote disclosure or in-depth exploration of women’s experiences of abuse.
- Women are more likely to discuss experiences of violence when nurses initiate non-structured discussions focused on parenting, safety, or healthy relationships.

(Jack, 2016)
Brave Space

• We are asking the field to move into what is called a ‘Brave Space’—what comes to your mind as you think about this?

• Often ‘Brave Spaces’ are spoken of in relation to ‘Safe Spaces’ (Arno, 2013; Boonstrom, et al 1998)

• We are asking the field to consider how disclosure driven practice means being the gate keeper of information
Health Equity

“Health equity means social justice in health”

(i.e., no one is denied the possibility to be healthy for belonging to a group that has historically been economically/socially disadvantaged). (Braveman, 2011)
Why America’s Black Mothers and Babies Are in a Life-or-Death Crisis

The answer to the disparity in death rates has everything to do with the lived experience of being a Black woman in America.

Race Isn’t a Risk Factor in Maternal Health. Racism Is.

The language of the moment suggests that it's Blackness that's the problem, not bias.

(Dr. Joia Crear-Perry Rewire. News Apr 11, 2018, 11:50am)
Using Illinois as Case Study

- In Illinois, non-Hispanic Black women are six times as likely to die of a pregnancy-related condition as non Hispanic White women.
- Black women were about three times as likely to die within a year of pregnancy as women of any other race/ethnicity.
- Homicides accounted for 15 percent of all pregnancy-associated deaths for Black women. In contrast, homicide was a very rare cause of pregnancy-associated death for White women (2 percent) (MMMR, 2018)

A Healthy Equity Lens Saves Lives

What if we challenge the limits of disclosure driven practice?

(Miller, 2017)
Universal Education

Provides an opportunity for clients to make the connection between violence, health problems, and risk behaviors.

* If you currently have DV screening as part of program requirements: we strongly recommend first doing universal education.
Healthy Moms, Happy Babies Safety Card

Take a moment to read this card. What stands out for you?
You Might Be the First Person to Talk About Healthy Relationships

All moms deserve healthy relationships. Ask yourself:

- Do I feel treated with respect and kindness?
- Do I feel safe and supported?
- Does my partner support my decisions about if or when I want to have more children?

If you answered YES to any of these questions, it is likely that you are in a healthy relationship. Studies show that this kind of relationship leads to better health, a longer life, and better outcomes for children.
"I've started giving two of these cards to all of my moms—it talks about healthy relationships and what to do for ones that aren’t safe. I always give two so you have info on how help a friend or family member--because we all know someone who has or will need help.”
Why Altruism Matters

“...the power of social support is more about mutuality than about getting for self...that is, there is a need to give, to matter, to make a difference; we find meaning in contributing to the well-being of others.”

(J.V. Jordan, 2006)
Helping Others Is Strength Based and Feeds Self Esteem

Everyone feels helpless at times—like nothing they do is right.

This might be true for you or someone you know. Connecting with other Moms about what’s hard, and where you find strength, might help you feel less alone.

You can make a difference by telling another Mom she’s not alone: “Hey, I’ve been there too. Someone gave this card to me, and it helped give me ideas on places I can go to get support and be safer.”

And for you? Studies show that when we help others we feel good about ourselves, too.
CUES: Who/When?

• Safety FIRST! Never do Universal Education or have conversations with others present (partner, friend, parent, older children)

• Never! Leave cards without client making it clear that is it is ok to do so

• Who gets it? All female clients

• When? First visit, so they have the info even if they dropout of program, use it before screening tool to smooth segue, and third trimester when talking about RC/contraception/pregnancy spacing
CUES: Trauma Informed Intervention

C: Confidentiality: See client alone, disclose limits of confidentiality

UE: Universal Education + Empowerment—How you frame it matters

Normalize activity:
"I've started giving two of these cards to all of my moms—because relationships can change. I always give two so you have info on how to help a friend or family member.”

Make the connection—open the card and do a quick review:
"It talks about healthy and safe relationships, ones that aren’t, and how they can affect your health and pregnancy—it connects things that you might not otherwise see--like how substance abuse or depression can be connected to hard relationships.”

S: Support:

“On the back of the card there’s a safety plan and 24/7 text and hotlines that have folks who really understand complicated relationships. You can also talk to me about any health issues or questions you have.”
Empowerment: Provider Interview

“(The card) made me feel empowered because…you can really help somebody…somebody that might have been afraid to say anything or didn’t know how to approach the topic, this is a door for them to open so they can feel…more relaxed about talking about it.”

(Miller, 2017)
“They would bring out a card, basically walk in with it and she would open it and ask me had I ever seen it before? It was awesome. She would touch on, no matter what the situation you’re in, there’s some thing or some place that can help you. I don’t have to be alone in it. That was really huge for me because I was alone most of the time for the worst part.”  - (Client)

“[Getting the card] makes me actually feel like I have a lot of power to help somebody...”
- (Client)

(Miller, 2017)
You can always follow CUES with direct inquiry and share any concern you have about their health issues and DV:

“Sometimes when I hear about [one of my moms needing a pregnancy test] it makes me wonder if he is preventing you from [using birth control or refusing to use condoms, or forcing you to do sexual things you don’t want to do.] Is anything like this going on for you?”

“Sometimes when I hear about anxiety it makes me think about relationships and stress...Is anything like this going on for you?”
Coping With Pain

How is your health, how are you coping? Ask yourself:

- Do I feel so sad I can’t get out of bed or take care of the kids the way I want to?
- Am I smoking more to try and calm myself?
- Am I drinking more, using prescription drugs, or other drugs to make the pain go away?
- Do I ever feel so sad that I have thoughts of hurting myself or suicide?

If you answered YES to any of these questions, the reason might be connected to your relationship. Talk with your home visitor right away about how to get help or call the National Suicide Hotline: 1-800-273-8255.
Disclosure is not the goal AND Disclosures do happen!
What survivors say that they want providers to do and say

- Be nonjudgmental
- Listen
- Offer information and support
- Don’t push for disclosure

(Chang, 2005)
Sample Safety Plan:

- Keep a little money with me.
- Keep my cell phone charged and with me.
- Teach my children to go to a safe place (a friend’s, neighbor’s, or relative’s home).
- Teach my children to call the police when there is danger and to give their full name, address, and phone number.
- Keep an emergency bag ready in a safe place.

Building my independence:

- I can start saving money and store it in a safe place (like my own bank account).
- I can get help from a counselor, an advocate, a health care provider, or legal services.
- I can try to keep in touch with a friend or family member who I trust.

Things to put in my emergency bag:

- Medications/ prescriptions
- Cell phone/charger
- Photo ID/ driver’s licence
- Extra keys
- Restraining order
- Bank card/
- Passports/

- Go to a local hospital emergency room.
- Call the local or national 24-hour sexual assault hotline:

You deserve to be safe and happy.
S: Providing an “Active” Referral

When you connect a patient to a local DV program it makes all the difference—it takes the burden off of the client to make the call. (Maybe it’s not safe for them to use their own phone—offer to use yours).

“If you would like, I can put you on the phone right now with [name of local advocate/Hotline], and they can come up with a plan to help you be safer.”
The National Domestic Violence Hotline has staff who are trained to help people in unsafe relationships. They answer the phone 24/7, can help you plan for safety and provide support — and everything you tell them is private and confidential. You are not alone — they have your back.

The Hotline

Treatment Referral

Domestic violence and sexual assault programs have vast experiences working with survivors of violence.

Advocates assist survivors who have experienced DV to think and act in a way to increase personal safety while assessing the risks.

Advocates connect patients to additional services like:

- Housing
- Legal advocacy
- Support groups/counseling
Health centers are key to violence prevention

Developed by and for community health centers in partnership with domestic violence programs
Self Reflection: On a Scale of 1 to 5

Now reflect on how comfortable you are with a positive disclosure of DV?
Success is measured by our efforts to reduce isolation and improve outcomes for safety and health.

- CUES approach v. screening alone
- Confidential environment for disclosure
- Supportive messages
- Offer harm reduction strategies to promote safety and health
- Make warm, supported referrals to DV advocacy programs
- Grow partnerships with DV advocacy programs
Two Person Debrief: Pair and Share “Ah Ha!”

Think about today’s training:

- What stands out for you?
- What do you need more of?
- What changed in your thinking?
Mindful Movement

- Wrap your arms around yourself—left hand over right arm and rub your arm
- Switch arms
- Stretch arms in the air, wiggle fingers, shake hands
- Come back to center
“So there’ll be times where I’ll just read the card and remind myself not to go back. I’ll use it so I don’t step back. I’ll pick up on subtle stuff, cause they’ll trigger me. I remember what it was like. I remember feeling like this, I remember going through this. I’m not going to do it again. For me, it just helped me stay away from what I got out of. I carry it with me actually, I carry it in my wallet. It’s with me every day.”

(Miller, 2017)
