

Leading with Humility

Webinar Presenters, September 5, 2024

Virginia Duplessis, Associate Director, Health, Futures Without Violence

Virginia Duplessis, MSW is the Associate Director of Health, providing oversight for a range of initiatives designed to improve the public health response to violence against women and increase the capacity of domestic violence services providers to address the health needs of their clients. She serves as the Director of the federally-designated National Health Resource Center on Domestic Violence, leading several multi-sector collaborations to increase health equity, prevent childhood trauma, and develop health policies to prevent violence. She brings over 20 years of experience in the domestic violence, sexual assault and public health fields. Ms. Duplessis has worked extensively with healthcare and social service providers, developing training and educational materials on a range of health and behavioral health issues within local and state public health organizations. Trained as a social worker and doula, she has also worked directly with community members, youth, and victims/survivors of violence as an advocate, counselor and prevention educator.

Zenebia Law, Senior Director of Community Services, The Center for Women and Families

My mission is to promote human development through education, encouragement, and motivation to uncover an individual's best version of themselves.

Zenebia Law began her professional career in the banking industry. During this time, she honed her professional skills and worked with clients at some of their most vulnerable points. In 2012, Zenebia earned her degree focusing on Applied Behavioral Analysis. Zenebia then began her career working with survivors of trauma at The Center for Women and Families. As a certified Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Victims' Advocate, Zenebia has worked with survivors in a variety of roles. Currently, she is the Senior Director of the Southern Indiana Programs at The Center where she takes pride in programmatic and staff development. Zenebia uses her experience and knowledge to provide professional training to the community and The Center's staff. She also cultivates deep relationships with community partners that enhance services to survivors. For example, being a member of the Indiana 211 Advisory Board helps foster change at a community level.
