New and at times substantial federal policy and legislative advances are providing enhanced opportunities to support violence prevention and response initiatives in health and public health settings. Significant funds from the American Rescue Package and other programs are starting to reach communities. The National Health Collaborative on Violence and Abuse (NHCVA) 2022 “DC update,” will inform participants about new initiatives that enhance response to and promote prevention of, violence and abuse.

The 2022 NHCVA DC Update webinar will:
1. Describe existing and planned federal legislative, policy, and regulatory initiatives related to violence and abuse.
2. Share ideas about how to utilize available funding streams to promote creative, trauma-informed, and prevention-focused initiatives.
3. Explore specific ways to access opportunities for funding and collaboration.
4. Describe how to identify and pursue further opportunities for providing input and accessing funding in the field.
